Great Grand-Daughter of Rachel Hall, Black Hawk Captive, Tells Story of Massacre and Ransom

BY HARRIETTE M. WHEATON
A romance of the Indian days, coming down, as did the legends of old, by word of mouth to the children and the children's children, finds expression today through the lips of the great-granddaughter of Rachel Hall, one of the two young girls held captive by the Indians in 1832. Telling the story, which she has heard over and over, Bessie Elizabeth Munson, a 15-year-old girl living at 622 South Main street, bared with pride in her relation to that girl, made illustrious through misfortune and succored through romance.

The horrors of the massacre by the Sac Indians, the tortures of Indian captivity, are retold by the great-granddaughter as she, Bessie, heard them from her father, Charles Munson, who had heard the tale from his father and father's father.

Story Put in Print.
The same story has been put in print by Charles Munson, Milwaukee, an uncle of Miss Marian Scanlon, teacher of English in the local high school. Miss Scanlon collaborated in the collection of material. The printed story substantiates that told by the young Munson girl.

Rachel Hall, aged 17, and Sylvia Hall, aged 19, at the time our story starts, were daughters of William Hall, who had settled in the spring of 1832 on a farm near the home of William Davis, just outside Ottumwa, Ill. Both families were noted for their hospitality. Miss Scanlon found a welcome in the Hall home during the summer and, enamored of the young girls, had, according to custom, been asked to purchase Rachel and Sylvia.

Farming in the summer of 1832 was often interrupted by Sac Indian scares, resulting in the loss of valuable privileges in the stream below the dam erected by Davis near his blacksmith shop and mill. Shabona, an Indian, friend of the whites, warned at the Davis settlement of a proposed Indian raid. The whites hastened to Ottumwa, the nearest fort. The raid did not materialize. The whites returned home. Davis, taunted by some of his friends for having run away, vowed to never do so again. May 21, Davis being away, the family loaded the wagons at once and started for Ottumwa, but meeting with delay, they were urged to return home. The Indians were among those who reluctantly turned back. All gathered at the Davis home.

Black Hawk's Savages Come.
At this point in her story, the details of which have been substantiated by the Scanlon story, the great-granddaughter's eyes brightened. Her father, she told, killed all of the people in the house, mostly women and children, sparing only Rachel and Sylvia. The Indians took the baby, she goes on, and dashed its brains out against a tree stump in the yard. The two girls, dragged from the cottage, saw the mutilated bodies of their relatives and friends, many with their hearts cut out, strewn the yard.

The horrors of the massacre had been enacted with the men helpless witnesses from the fields and shop, where they were cut off from their ammunition and other means of attack on the 50 or more Indians in the raiding party. Among those who escaped was John Hall, a brother of the Hall girls. The fendishness of the Indians was told to a desire for revenge for the treachery of one Stillman, who had turned his guns on the Indians sent forward for tribute in a recent conflict in another part of the state.

Girls Taken North.
The two Hall girls, the only survivors of the massacre, were taken north to the home of a friend of their father's, a man named John Hall, who had been a friend of their father's.

News Notes From Movieland

Miss Gertrude Doyle and her statue of Joan d'Arc, with Norma Talmadge for the figure.

Norma Talmadge (is she your favorite movie actress too?) has just been selected by Gertrude Doyle, the famous American sculptress, as representing a perfect type for a statue of Joan d'Arc. Miss Doyle is making the statue for the Strand theater of New York city. The original will be cast in bronze and will be placed in the lobby.

Miss Talmadge has been selected by many picture fans as a perfect type for almost anything she might choose to be, for when one is a Norma admirer one always speaks in superlatives. Miss Talmadge recently returned to New York from a vacation trip to Havana and Palm Beach. Her last picture was "She Loves and Lies" and her next one has not yet been announced. The photograph shows Miss Doyle at work in her studio and Miss Talmadge is resting between poses.

GOSSIP NEWS.
George Stewart, brother of Anita, has entered pictures with determination to learn all about the business. He appeared with William Russell in "Shed With Fire," and has just been engaged by Douglas Fairbanks.

The Indians took the baby, she goes on, and dashed its brains out against a tree stump in the yard. The two girls, dragged from the cottage, saw the mutilated bodies of their relatives and friends, many with their hearts cut out, strewn the yard.

The horrors of the massacre had been enacted with the men helpless witnesses from the fields and shop, where they were cut off from their ammunition and other means of attack on the 50 or more Indians in the raiding party. Among those who escaped was John Hall, a brother of the Hall girls. The fendishness of the Indians was told to a desire for revenge for the treachery of one Stillman, who had turned his guns on the Indians sent forward for tribute in a recent conflict in another part of the state.

Girls Taken North.
The two Hall girls, the only survivors of the massacre, were taken north to the home of a friend of their father's, a man named John Hall, who had been a friend of their father's.

At this point in her story, the details of which have been substantiated by the Scanlon story, the great-granddaughter's eyes brightened. Her father, she told, killed all of the people in the house, mostly women and children, sparing only Rachel and Sylvia. BUILDING TIE-UP CAN'T BE STOPPED

General Walk-Out of Tradesmen Tomorrow Declared Certain—No Agreement Reached.

No agreement was reached to alleviate the situation, which now appears will tie up practically every line of building activity in Janesville tomorrow, at a session of trade representatives and contractors at East Side Odd Fellows' hall last night.

"The strike is a certainty. There is not a single doubt about it," said Fred E. Green, plumbing contractor today, a member of the grievance committee of the plumbing contractors, which attended the meeting last night. The plumbers have been out since the first of the month and it appears that other tradesmen will follow them tomorrow.

Each Side Firm.
The meeting obtained no results, it was learned. Warm arguments ensued, it is said, but neither side would yield from its apparently set program for firmness in its demands.

Something of a general statement to the public was promised on Saturday by Mr. Green. Incidentally, yesterday, representatives of the striking plumbers promised something more for Thursday evening, "providing a general walkout occurred." From what information would be divulged this something also was a promise.

At Union Labor hall this morning the information was given that seven trades aside from the plumbers and steamfitters would be involved in the proceedings, tomorrow. They are the painters, carpenters, masons and bricklayers, lathers and plasterers, the sheet metal workers and the electricians. Although there was some doubt expressed as to the probability of the latter going out. The electricians, it was said, have practically secured their demands for $1 per hour. Their scale was said to be 35 cents.

Masons Ask $1.35 an Hour.
Masons and bricklayers want $1.35, a 10 cent increase. Demands of the plasterers are similar. Sheet metal workers look for a 25 cent per hour raise, from $1 to $1.25.

All workmen are receiving in excess of their trade union scale, it was admitted by union men today. Increased costs of living and general exorbitant prices for everything was their argument for demands for additional wage over the present.

Eleventh hour meetings will be held by a number of unions at Union Labor hall tonight. The painters are to go into session at 8:30 p. m. and the Building Trades council has scheduled a gathering at 9 o'clock.

WELLS MUST GO, DIRECTORS INSIST

C. of C. Leaders Look for Temporary Man To Fill Office—Wells Not Aggressive, They Say.

Following the withdrawal Monday night of his previously tendered resignation, George F. Wells, manager of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce, last night was informed by the board of directors at a meeting held in the Chamber rooms that his services will be no longer required after a temporary manager is procured to take his place.

The board held its original decision, arrived at in a secret session held Tuesday, March 25, when it was decided that Mr. Wells be relieved. Last night's action is declared to be in keeping with the original desire of the board that Mr. Wells' services be terminated and it was deemed necessary on account of the withdrawal by Mr. Wells of his resignation, which read: "At your request, I hereby tender you my resignation, effective on this date (March 24)."

Mr. Wells will remain with the Chamber until April 30 or until a man can be secured from the American City Bureau to manage the office. Mr. Wells is engaged to take the present occupancy of the place. This was brought out in a discussion, as to when Mr. Wells should leave, and the organization that for the good of the organization he stay on those conditions.

The action to relieve Mr. Wells was taken by the board of directors, said President J. P. Cullen in an interview today, "at the request of members of the board of directors who asked that a meeting of the board be convened to consider the advisability. We held a meeting on March 28 at which Mr. Wells was not present when the board unanimously decided to ask him to resign."

No Personal Feeling.

"There is nothing personal in the action of the board. We feel that a change in management is necessary for the good of the Chamber and the future welfare of the city. We have long felt that Mr. Wells is not the man we want for the position."

Present conditions in Janesville demand a man of aggressive spirit, am sorry to state that the decision was taken because it is felt that Mr. Wells is not possessed of the necessary vigor to meet the needs of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Wells is a follower and has looked to the board for suggestions to his course of action. This type of man is not suitable for the work here which requires a manager to take the initiative on all civic and other affairs connected with the Chamber of Commerce."

Others May Resign.

President Cullen stated that the Chamber is now looking for a man to take Mr. Wells' place and hopes to procure one in the near future.

While Mr. Wells says he has several offers from the American City Bureau, he has made no decision as yet as where he will go.

When he leaves, it is understood the present office force of the Chamber, including R. D. Hagen, is a factor of retail merchants' work, will also resign.

PAPKE INQUEST IS ADJOURNED WEEK

Officials, Displeased with Testimony, Seek More Witnesses.

General dissatisfaction was expressed by officials at noon today at the termination of the second session of the coroner's inquest inquiring into the cause of the death of Harold Papke, five-year-old boy fatally injured when struck by an auto on High street, March 21.

Witnesses examined today failed to throw sufficient light on the case to warrant submitting it to the coroner's jury entering into decision to adjourn the inquest until next Wednesday morning at 9:30. The fact that two witnesses could not appear today also entered into the decision.

More Witnesses Assured.

Earl Connors, 21, driver of the car which caused Young Papke's death was the only eye-witness to the tragedy who testified today—the others had seen the boy after he was hit, but had not seen him struck.

Coroner Lynn A. Whaley and Dist. Atty. S. G. Dunwiddie stated at conclusion of today's testimony they hoped to secure more witnesses for next Wednesday.

Told Not to Answer.

The case was featured today by Connors' refusal to testify and his change of heart a few minutes later when he took the stand and answered all questions. When first called to the stand he was told by counsel, E. H. Ryan, to make the following answer to each question:

"I decline to answer on the grounds that I may incriminate myself."

WARNING!

Don't kick any innocent plug hats—or others—out of your path tomorrow, and don't trouble yourself about the purse lying on the sidewalk, forget that this is the year one-nine-two-naught, if you get such a query over your telephone, and in fact take up the question for a vote. The vote last month was 196 to 25 against adoption.

Gov. Russell notified the speaker that he would appear before the house late in the day for "a little friendly talk" and it was planned to bring up the resolution immediately after his speech.

Of the 140 members of the house, only 107 were present. When the resolution was rejected in February, 131 members were present, 108 voting against and 25 for the ratification. Leaders on both sides claimed the decreased attendance favored their cause.

DELAWARE HOUSE TO VOTE ON SUFFRAGE TODAY?

Dover, March 31.—The vote on the resolution for ratification of the proposed equal suffrage amendment was expected to be taken in the lower house of the Delaware legislature today. The resolution was reported out "on its merits" by the house committee on revised statutes yesterday. The committee will take no action until the lower branch has disposed of the measure. Increased activity in the camps of both the suffragists and those opposed to ratification was noticed today. Suffrage workers made urgent appeals for favorable action on the resolution pleading with the lawmakers not to permit the Mississippi legislature to "rob Delaware of the honor of giving the final vote necessary to make the amendment a federal law."

REBELS BESIEGING WESEL REINFORCED

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The army of rebellious German workmen besieging the fortress of Wesel has received reinforcements and made new attacks according to dispatches sent by the Associated Press to the New York Evening Post.

The town of Hamm in Westphalia and several other places are reported to have been surrounded. At Essen the advance state 3 general strike has been proclaimed and carried out in full force. The postal and telegraph stations are closed as are also most of the offices and shops. The tramway is still intact. A number of the employers have agreed to pay their workers for time lost during the strike. The Krupp works have refused to do this. The employers have all expressed a willingness to pay their workers who have joined the red army. In case any employer is unable to pay the men the town government will bear the expense.

FRESH LOCHINVAR PUT HORS DE COMBAT BY 5TH WARD MISS

There is at least one masher in Janesville today nursing a badly gashed face and no doubt a little apprehensive about again appearing in the streets. He was women on the street in April last night. He won't want to enjoy his experience a second time.

Approaching her from behind on Pleasant street, he lightly caught her arm and murmured, "Oh, Hello, I'm here to take you home." Swinging in the girl's other hand was a heavy silver mask bag. Startled by the impudence of the stranger and angered by his audacity she swung her weapon in a wide circle and caught him full in the face.

He instantly ran like a whipped puppy.

37 STATES ARE AIM OF SUFFRAGE WORKERS.

Washington, March 31.—Suffrage forces will not slacken their efforts until 37 states have ratified the suffrage amendment, the National Woman's Party announced today, so that the coming into force of the amendment will not be delayed should the supreme court hold to the provision of the Ohio state constitution permitting a referendum on all amendments.

Irrespective of the action now before the court the state department is expected to issue the proclamation of ratification as soon as notice has been received from the 36th state that the legislature has taken favorable action.

Thirty-five states have ratified and should either Delaware or Mississippi ratify the suffragists say they will continue their fight for favorable action by the other side.

ers who had been abandoned are making their way home.

The general strike at Hagen has again been called off. In Dusseldorf 200 revolutionists evicted from their homes, it is stated, as the result of negotiations with the authorities there.

Troops Push Forward.

Government troops in Ruhr have been pushed forward, the time limit fixed in the ultimatum from the government to the workers there having been reached. The dispatches declare that the government's declarations have been voted by the Russian assembly.

Leaders of the three socialist parties have sent an ultimatum to the government requesting that it respect the Euzeland convention and immediately suspend all military measures in the Ruhr valley. The government is given until 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon to accept or reject the request. Should it be rejected, an immediate proclamation of a general strike will follow. Chancellor Mueller is informed by a socialist delegation.

REBEL LEADERS IN RUHR.

Dusseldorf, March 31.—The revolutionary leaders in the Ruhr district have been in session for 36 hours and at 6 o'clock last night were still trying to find some way out of the corner into which most of them feel they have been driven by the government's measures.

Most of the leaders admit defeat but many of them are declared to be resolved to pursue a course of sabotage with regard to the mines and possibly one of destruction of the factories if the government troops advance on them as was threatened.

There has been a sudden tightening of the food restrictions in the Ruhr area.

All Fools Day

Tomorrow is April Fool's Day.

That is a day set aside for all those who have not done foolish things for a long time to break over and do one or two foolish things just to even up.

But if you have done foolish things recently (and most of us have) it is perfectly proper for you to do a wise thing tomorrow.

Perhaps a really good joke for you to play is one on your "pocket book".

Why not rob your pocket book of a few of those dollars that will soon slip away if left there and put them in the savings bank at interest.

We'll welcome all who want to do the wise thing tomorrow—any amount you can spare from $1 up.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My parents are very strict and my father is cruel to me and often strikes me. They do not want me to go anywhere and I cannot have company or callers. I am supposed to sit at home by them all the time. You really don't know how much my young heart craves for company. I feel best when I am at the office where people greet me with a smile.

I cry myself to sleep almost every night. I believe there is no girl who weeps as much as I do. When father sees me cry he strikes me, although I am kind and loving to him and mother.

It breaks my heart sometimes when I see other girls going away and having good times, while I am left as if behind prison bars. I do hope that some day Prince Charming will break the bars to my prison and take me to a happy life.

Do you think I ought to leave home? LONESOME ROSE.

Although you are suffering from your suffering, to weep and think that no one weeps so much, is ridiculous. You know little of the suffering in the world to feel that way. Gloom makes you all the more miserable. There is much companionship in books. You could be quite happy about your day at the office and night at home. I realize that books cannot take the place of life. You need friends in flesh and blood. Just now, however, you are too young to leave home. Be as happy as possible for a year or two and at the end of that time if conditions have not changed at home, go elsewhere. I am afraid the world would bring you real suffering if you were to break away from home at the age of eighteen.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and married a boy when I was fifteen, but have never lived with him. I like him, but do not love him. He is eighteen now. I see him once in a while and he begs me to go away and live with him. I really do not love anyone. I am going with a fellow now and he tells me he loves me, but I do not give him any answer.

Should I live with my husband, or should I keep company with the other fellow? MISS TOMMY.

Your affairs certainly are in a tangle. Divorce seems the only way out. If you live with your husband there will probably be children to add to the complication. A separation would be more difficult with children to consider.

It is not right for you, a married girl, to keep company with another man. Get a divorce so that you will be free to live the normal life of a young girl. Your first venture has been such a failure that you should not think of marriage again until you are older and very sure of your own mind.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am worried about my six-year-old boy. Every day he comes home from school a crying girl. Your first venture has been such a failure that you should not think of marriage again until you are older and very sure of your own mind.

What a wonderful romance it was, all about a girl who was beautiful and very young, and a boy who was just like little me, she met a young man and fell in love with him, and soon after they were engaged. But that foolish girl was not content with her lot, and asked to try her wings too, and paint, and see the world. She was terrified at the thought of suddenly growing up and becoming the mistress of a house just when she wanted to dream and play for ever so long before leaving into the dark.

One day she told her lover of how she felt and he was very silent. Several days later, as she was in her studio painting, he came in. She was painting a young man model, and her fiancé's face went white when he saw how free and easy the scene was and how his fiancée was absorbed in her work—hardly nodding to him when he appeared.

When she had finished and dismissed the model, she took him face in her hands and asked her if her work would always mean so very much to her after they were married. She kissed him and then told him that sometimes it seemed as if her work were the very breath of her nostrils. She was happiest when painting.

Then she explained how he felt about their future and how he had always dreamed of a home and wife. Last of all he told her that he had been given a big task out in South America, something about building a most important railroad. He was an engineer. He asked her whether she would be ready to marry him right away and go down to Peru with him and be his helpmate.

That poor girl was fairly frightened to death at the thought of so sudden a change and, somehow or other, before they were through they had words.

It ended in his leaving for Peru—alone and broken hearted. The girl stayed behind and felt sure that she had chosen rightly. But not long afterwards she discovered that when he went out of her life her talent had gone with him. She never painted again.

Like many girls, whose pride means more than their happiness to them, she never wrote to him to explain her change of mind and he passed out of her life completely. Occasionally she heard of his wanderings—here and there—but he never returned to the States. And he never saw her again.

Neither did the girl. Imagine my surprise when Aunt Cecilia looked over my shoulder and saw my sad expression in her eyes and said: "Lindsey, dear, I was that girl!" (To be continued.)

washed rice and then add one and one-quarter cups of boiling water. Cook until the rice is soft and then add two cups of milk, six tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of butter, one well-beaten egg and one-half teaspoon of nutmeg.

Beat to mix and then turn into a baking dish and bake in a slow oven for 30 minutes.

TESTED RECIPES
Soup—Take one pound of hamburger steak and fry it. While this is frying, chop up or peel large potatoes, two onions and about a cup of dried corn (use corn off cob when in season), and when meat is done put that in, and break up the meat with your hands. Simmer slowly for about two hours.

Scotch Style Soda Biscuits—One quart flour, one level teaspoon soda, one heaping teaspoon baking powder. Sift dry ingredients, then rub in three tablespoons lard.

Mix to a soft dough with sour milk, roll one-half inch thick and bake in moderate oven. These will keep in a very good way.

Ham Baked in Milk—But one-half ham, as it is cheaper. Have the butcher cut off slices an inch thick and bake or boil the rest which can be used in a variety of ways.

Wash the slice, then rub in a little mustard and brown sugar. Stick a few cloves in the fat. Place in baking dish and cover with milk. Bake slowly for two hours.

(In making a small pie for only two people use scant measurements and only one egg.)

Meat Soufflé—Grind finely leftover beef. There should be one cup. Mix with one cup white sauce and beaten yolks of two eggs. Beat egg whites stiff and fold in carefully. Bake for about 20 minutes or until a golden brown.

Peanut Butter Fudge—Three cups brown sugar, one cup milk. Cook until it forms a soft ball in water. Remove and add two tablespoons peanut butter, stir and pour in buttered pans to cool.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

HER AUNT CECILIA'S CONFESSION.

I have made two great discoveries this evening. My "old maid" Aunt Cecilia is young—and beautiful! When I came home from the party tonight, Aunt Cecilia was sitting up waiting for me. She wasn't a bit sleepy, and seemed sort of anxious to talk with me. I told her all about Mr. and Mrs. Ted, and how wonderful their studio was and all about the lovely amok that Mrs. Ted was and everything. Her eyes just sparkled at my description, and she squeezed my hand once and said I was so like herself.

Then she asked me if I really was interested in my painting or whether it was just a passing fancy with me. I told her how I felt about that and many other things that have been on my mind for ever so long. Somehow or other I can talk to Aunt Cecilia better than anyone else. She understands me so well. She's never pecky or critical.

When I told her that I sometimes felt that nineteen was awful young to make a home for a husband and that I felt that I just must try my wings first and all that sort of thing she took a long breath and suddenly wanted to be an artist.

Then she asked me if I'd like to hear a story about another girl who had gone through the same feelings, and of course I said yes.

What a wonderful romance it was, all about a girl who was beautiful and very young, and a boy who was just like little me, she met a young man and fell in love with him, and soon after they were engaged. But that foolish girl was not content with her lot, and asked to try her wings too, and paint, and see the world.

"KANST DU CRAPS SCHUTZEN?"

"Not all of the war was horror and bitterness," writes Gen. J. Fox, "and the spirit our boys showed reminded me very much of the standard set in our sports at home. If the enemy had met us on the same sportsmanlike basis, history would record a different story of the conflict. An incident related by one of my staff, illustrates the Yankee spirit. The doughboy had captured a German and on the way to camp discovered that the prisoner had a huge roll of French money. Immediately he conjured up visions of the delectable cafes of Paris and what he would do with that bank roll, but he could not bring himself to the point where he would actually take the roll. Instead he pondered for a moment, and then, bringing his captive to attention, faced him, saluted, and asked: 'Kamerad, kanst du craps schutzen?'"—The Boston Herald.

Four Planets Now Visible In the Early Evening Sky

Mars, Jupiter and Saturn All Easily Discernible, Neptune Less So—The Skies in March.

By DR. C. S. BLAININ.

Of the Columbia University Observatory Staff.

The present evening sky is certainly a "planet" sky for the map shows us no less than four planets above the horizon in the early evening. And of these, three are the best known and most remarkable planets of the entire solar family—Venus, the radiant planet; Jupiter, the giant of the system; and Saturn, the wonderful ringed planet. The fourth is, as in the previous few months, Neptune, whose orbit lies farther out from the sun than any other planet. It is so far away that it can not be satisfactorily observed even with the largest telescopes, and very little beyond its movements is known about it.

The other three, however, are the easiest planets of all to observe, for Venus and Mercury, which would be not unfavorable for close study on account of their distance, are always too near the sun. Venus is at present a morning star and can be seen shining beautifully several hours before sunrise. Mercury also will be a morning star for about 10 days before and after the 15th, and can be looked for near the eastern horizon within an hour before the rising of the sun.

Among the newcomers on the April map you will find in the extreme northeastern sky the brilliant Vega once more above the horizon. In the east the Northern Crown, Corona, is now well above the horizon and will be found above Mars in the sky. Spica is what is known as a spectroscopic double star, appearing as a single star, of course, to the naked eye, and even the telescope fails to resolve it into its components. But the spectroscopic discovery of a doubling of the spectral lines in its light, which reveals its true nature. The Spica system is approaching us at the rate of 92 miles per second.

This past winter the question of the possibility of talking with the planet Mars and the attendant question of the existence of the much-spooken-of Martians have occupied the public mind to a large extent. The statement of Marconi that he had received with his wireless receiving instruments messages whose terrestrial origin he doubted has brought forth opinions of many experts in the science of radio-communication as to the feasibility of sending and receiving over interplanetary distances other waves such as are used in wireless telegraphy.

From the purely physical standpoint there seems to be no reasonable doubt that such interplanetary communication is possible, either by radio or as some have suggested with a greater promise of success, by means of gigantic searchlights. The question of the possibility of starting some wave impulse, which will travel from earth to Mars can hardly be raised; it is simply necessary to have the receiving source powerful enough and the receiving apparatus sufficiently delicate. It seems to be in the power of the modern terrestrial scientist to have both if he be permitted to utilize the terrestrial sources to the utmost.

That is the first phase of the great question, the second and the more important, is there any one to communicate with on the other planets of the solar system? Every man, including the astronomer, would like to answer this question in the affirmative, for it would open a source of knowledge that would extend science to an unimaginable

BILLY WHISKERS

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy's little band of circus people joined the others they found everything in order, as they were the last company of the six traveling bands to join the main one. There was one huge tent with three rings in it where the performance would be given; opening into this was another large one where the animals were exhibited, and branching out of this were three others—one where the horses and ponies were kept; another used as the dressing room, and still another where the circus people took their meals, while scattered around were ten or a dozen side-shows.

The cage Billy was in had hardly been put in place when the sides were taken off and he found himself in the large animal tent with the cages around him and a big old friend the elephant trotted just outside with the other elephants from the different bands, and his elephant friend was talking to him.

"Goodness gracious me! Is that you, Mr. Billy, shut up in that cage? I never expected to see you in a place like that."

"Neither did I ever expect to find myself in one like this," Billy answered, "and what is more, I would rather be dead than stay here. But I will get out yet, don't you fear."

"I bet you will, Mr. Whiskers, for you are a good one at getting out of scrapes as well as getting into them. Let me introduce you to my friend and chum, Prince Nan-ka-poo, as he is called on the show."

times as dense as water. The force of Martian gravity on the surface of the planet is only about a third of the force of gravity at the earth's surface. It is upon this fact that imaginative people base the statement that the possibly existing Martians would be three times as tall as we Earthlings, which is absurd as the force of gravity does not affect the height of animals on the earth, for they would be found to be slightly taller on the whole at the equator than nearer the poles.

The Martian day is about half an hour longer than our day, and the Martian year is as long as 97 terrestrial days. The average distance from the sun is about 141,500,000 miles, and as a consequence, the strength of sunlight falling on the Martian surface is only about 4 of what it is here.

Four in a touring car, displaying stars and warrants, "officially confiscated" the liquor and later the truck and four other men arrived and took it.

man came along with a hose and began to wash out Billy's head and eyes with water, squirting it in his eyes just to tease him, which Billy thought was a little too much, as it was like kicking a fellow who was down and could not help him.

"Just wait, Ma man with the hose, until I meet you when I get out of here, and if I don't make your body ache, then my name is not Billy Whiskers. I am going to give you a butt and hook that will send you half way up a telegraph pole!" (Tomorrow Billy becomes a different goat.)

As to Building-Codes. The writer having heard what appears to be an undue amount of criticism upon the council, regarding the passage of the city building code, would call the attention of those inclined to so criticize, to the fact that this is in accord with the Wisconsin state building code. The state code being a compilation of laws which were enacted for the purpose of safeguarding the public against sickness and accident and to prevent the erection of buildings in a manner that would increase the fire hazard or otherwise encroach upon the rights of owners of adjoining property. All cities of importance have their local codes and inspectors. The enforcement of such a code is wholly for the protection of the greatest number.

It would be to the advantage of property owners to have their building examined frequently by some person experienced in building work. The writer was forcibly impressed with this just recently. When called upon to look over a downtown building regarding some repairs and alterations, in a dark corner of the cellar were found drain pipe connections so improperly made that there was leaking of poisonous gas and sewerage, that from all appearances had been going on for years. The former tenant had laid down boards to avoid walking through the slush, evidently taking it as something that had to be. This plumbing had been installed before city inspection was required.

In my experience I have found many cases where buildings have required costly repairs or irreparable damage had been done, that could have been avoided at very slight expense had the owner's attention been called to conditions in proper time. Further, the writer has paid an excessive fire insurance rate on a certain building, wholly on account of the inferior construction of a building on an adjoining lot.

Yours for better buildings in Janesville, BUILDER.

Editor of Gazette:

"It seems strange to me, and the question arises in me, who is the head or motive of ordering our city schools Easter vacation? As it appears to me, whosoever they are, they are certainly a bunch, which is not interested in Holy Week, and all the different religious meetings, which are announced in the Saturday evening paper and are being held this Holy Week, in which our dear children with their parents should take part, instead of attending church, they are in their school work. The question is why could not this next week vacation be this week?"

The teachers' pupils and janitors' thoughts and mind ought to be at their respective churches, instead in school work. I never have known it before until I came to Janesville, that the school Easter vacation was not in Holy Week. Where is our city going to in regard to religion? If we don't bring up our children, our youth in religion, and advise them to observe and keep in mind God's wonderful and great deeds he has done for us, which are all brought out in services this week in the different churches, what will become of our future generation? We don't want alone good citizens. We also must have true Christians. Some one will say, "well, these services are mostly evenings, the teacher's pupils, and janitors can attend them the same." I say they cannot as they are tired when evening comes. Most of them, especially the janitors and teachers' children need to be in bed early, and early to rise in the morning. It seems too sad, that the people have all got to be so greedy after the almighty dollar and they can not stop the industry and all work. So much of it done even on Holy sabbath and this week that great sacred day the death of our Lord the Saviour. Many a one not even gives it any more, so much to informate the day of which the prince of glory died and if we keep on, and not get our children interested and teach them the meaning of Holy week, after a time religion will be a thing of the past. I hope next year for the benefit of the children and their parents that our Easter vacation is set Holy Week. I thank the board, superintendent of schools and teachers in advance if such is carried to a vote in my favor and many others.

LA FOLLETTE PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN DELEGATES AT LARGE

ELECTION APRIL 6th

It is time for a change in state and national policies. High taxes, high cost of living, extravagance and fraud in public affairs run riot, makes it imperative that the people wake up to the wrongs imposed upon them by the oligarchy of plunder and profligate during the war. We should make their rebuke emphatic April 6 by electing the La Follette Progressive Delegates.

For Delegates at large vote for these four:
HENRY KRUMREY, Sheboygan, the most successful promoter of cooperative marketing for the farmers in the United States.

EDWIN J. GROSS who stood for the constitutional guarantee of personal liberty when the profiteers were bounding innocent men into jail.

JAMES THOMPSON of La Crosse, who has denounced the big criminals from the platform and driven them to a campaign of secrecy and silence.

JOHN J. BLAINE the attorney general of Wisconsin, the people's lawyer who saved the soldiers bonus when big business led by Governor Phillips enjoined their pay.

For District Delegates first district vote for these two:
Fred W. Gilman, Evansville and Robert V. Baker, Kenosha, two progressives who stand four square to every wind that blows.

Look for the slogan after each name on the ballot—"La Follette Progressive Republicanism" and make X after each name with that slogan.

Vote for 4 delegates at large and Vote for 2 district delegates.
These candidates are pledged to a platform of principles. Read it. It puts human welfare above the dollars of the millionaire.
The farmers and laboring men are for the men who put their principles out in the open. They are against silence and secrecy of the "uninstructed" delegates.
LET'S MAKE IT UNANIMOUS.

Samson Practice Starts Saturday--City Bowling Tourney

FAIR GROUNDS TO SEE OPENING WORK

Pitcher DuMont Will Be in Uniform--Housing Situation Continues Serious.

BY FRANK SINCLAIR.
Samson baseball nine starts practice on the fair grounds field Saturday.
That's the best news that has come to the ears of baseball fans here so far this year. It sounds like the music of the overture to a great season for the game in local atmosphere.

Only thing that might interfere is wet weather.
With the balmy spring air and the warm sunshine of the past few days, the players are twitching at their ordinary jobs in the big shop down on Industrial avenue and are waiting patiently for the first whiff at the ball and the first unrolling of the arms that have been covered by overcoats for the past months of long, hard winter.

Things Looking-Up
Manager George Perring says that everything looks rosy for the season. He says he is even more anxious than his men to do civilians and jump into a uniform and get things out of paper and onto the diamond. With the club on the weekend practices will be Pitcher DuMont of Minneapolis who has come back to the city with his wife and child, a house having been procured for him. DuMont was here a few weeks ago, but went back to his home disappointed because he was unable to get even a couple of rooms to live in. The call that went out through the columns of the Gazette to the people of the city to join in easing the housing situation so that a ball club might be assured the Samson plant and Janesville partly did its work. One man came right across and declared that if the conditions were so stringent, he would go out and buy a house himself and place it at the disposal of the players. His civic spirit is what brought the much-needed twinkle back to the lower eye when things were beginning to look as black as that tortoise cloud of last Palm Sunday.

HARDER IS HEAD SAMSON ASSOCIATION

The officers of the Samson Tractor Employees' association elected at a meeting of the directors Monday night are as follows:
President, D. J. Harder, factory superintendent.
Vice-president, George Berger, production store room.
Secretary, J. H. Larkham, manager of the welfare department.
Members of executive committee in addition to officers: J. R. Eggert, maintenance engineer; and John Fathens, assistant factory superintendent of plant No. 2.

Committees
The treasurer is to be appointed by the executive committee in the near future.
Two committees were appointed, one for social affairs, the other for athletics, as follows:
Athletics: George Perring, chairman; J. R. Eggert; George Hermon; William Smith.
Social: A. L. Steinhauer; I. G. Miller and William Keeley.

BELOIT GARDNERS WANT BALL GAMES

One of the fastest amateur baseball aggregations in southern Wisconsin will be placed on the diamond this year by the Gardner Machine Company, Beloit. The team will play Company, Beloit. The team will play under the name of the Gardner Grinders. It is anxious to book games with any amateur team that played either at Beloit or Kenosha. Communicate with C. A. Hodge, manager, care of Gardner Machine company, Beloit.

WISCONSIN SOCCER TO START APRIL 26

The soccer-football season of the Wisconsin State Football association will open at Racine April 26. Kenosha, Milwaukee and Zion city are expected to enter a total of 12 teams.
First games booked are Horlicks, Racine, vs All Stars, Milwaukee; Ernst Brooks, Kenosha, vs Simmons, Kenosha; and MacWhites, Kenosha, vs Marshall Fields, Zion City.

Gazette Trophy and Prizes Presented to Pin Leaders

Featured by the presentation of the Gazette three-year trophy to the Arcade five, winners in the City League bowling tournament, by Frank Sinclair, sports editor of the Gazette, a meeting of the captains of the organization was held in the Gazette office last night, closing the league's 1919-20 season.

Prize money for the best showings for the season were awarded by E. C. Baumann, secretary of the association, to the league winners; best high team for three games; best high five for one game; highest individual score for three games; record individual single contest; and the high individual averages for the year. These were as follows:

League Leaders.
Three games, five men—Samson team, score 2,783.
One game, five men—Samson team, score 1,014.
Three games, individual—Cook, score 619.
Edith one game, individual—Paulus, 268; Biglow, 253; Baumann, 248.
High individual average for season—Cook, 136; Lampert, 132; and Paulus, 132. In these scores, Lampert gets second place because he rolled three more games than Paulus.

In winning the league race, the Arcade knights rolled 90 games, of which they lost only nine as against their nearest opponents, the Samsons, 16. They made a percentage of .880. To do this they had to average 870 a game during the entire season, or 276 per man. As an actuality, the men on the combination averaged: Paulus, 132; Nelson, 179; Newman, 169; Mead, 169; and Grove, 168. In addition, Paulus made the record score for a single game by hitting the maples for 268. He also got third place in the averages for singles at 132.

Individual Results.
Results of individual averages for the league showed all but two of the men laid to on the drives for 150 and better. They were:

BADGER BREEDERS AND SHIPPERS JOIN

Meeting Friday and Saturday in Madison of Live Stock Producers.

Madison, March 31.—Badger breeders and shippers who are interested in cost cutting rationing for pork and beef production will gather at the Wisconsin Experiment Station, Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, to see the demonstrations in feed lot and experimental pens.

HELPING THE FARMERS TO UNDERSTAND

Nothing that the Wisconsin Agricultural College has undertaken in recent years, should attract more attention among farmers than its plan to demonstrate before the head of the state government the results of feeding experiments that have been in progress for two years. As announced, the results of the feeding experiments will be reviewed by J. G. Fuller of the College of Agriculture Saturday morning and he will prove his points with two lots of steers, one bunch fed on shelled corn, corn silage, cottonseed meal, and hay, the other lot on ground barley, corn silage, and hay. Butters from the stockyards will then place values on the two lots. Checked corn as compared with ground barley for the making of prime baby beef will also prove of interest to feeders.

Practical feeding day. Saturday afternoon is pork producers' day. F. W. Morrison and G. Bohstedt will talk on reducing the cost of pork production and illustrate the talks with pigs fed on the various rations. The value of white corn as compared with yellow corn will be made a feature of the demonstration. Comparisons of tankage, skim milk, whey, soybeans as supplements for corn and barley will bring important facts before Badger feeders. Pasture crops for pigs, raising better litters, and labor saving hog-feeding devices make up the balance of the afternoon.

April 2 will be breeders' association day. The annual meetings of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association and the Wisconsin Hereford Breeders' association will be held, and a program of vital interest to every stockman outlined for 1923.

Whiteface breeders, meeting at the call of their secretary, Chris Schroeder of Racine, will outline a comprehensive campaign for popularizing the Herefords in a large number of Wisconsin counties. Herbert W. Mumford of Illinois, one of the greatest breeders in the United States, will make the address at the banquet held Friday evening.

In a cross—Congressman John J. Bach who is detained at Washington by pressing congressional work, is the first in Congress to apply for the privilege of voting by mail for delegates to the national convention.

PROTESTANTS HAVE HOLY WEEK SERVICES

A large audience attended vesper services held in St. Peter's Evangelical church last evening and heard the Lenten Cantata, given by the church choir. "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," by Maunders, was the name of the production. Following an old English custom, the verse taken from the scriptures, the music was given with expression and feeling, and the chorus effect was of a harmonious quality.

David McDermott served as director, besides giving many of the recitative passages of the production. Miss Marie Rasmussen, alto, and Miss Roberto Van Gilder, soprano, sang their selections with admirable expression. Alfred Olson, besides minor parts, sang "Open the Gates of the Temple." The others taking part were Miss Helen Klotz, Bertha Liani, Roberta Van Gilder, Frederica McEln, Minnie Brose, Elizabeth Diehl, and Mrs. William Helge, Marie Louisa, Lawrence Bowerman, Fattie Kueck, Gladys Pederson, Ottilie Diehl, William Buchholz, Alfred Olson, Fred Dettmer, George Rasmussen, E. E. Larsen, Walter Graf and Leo Brummond.

representations that I have received as to the situation in my own state, convince me that it is my duty to confirm the action that my republicans friends there have already taken without consulting me.

With Reservations
"I understand that there is a great wish among the republicans of California to have opportunity to express themselves in favor of the league of nations with proper reservations safeguarding American traditions and interests, as opposed to the extreme view advocated against any league at all."

"I differ just as strongly with the view as I differ with the extreme position taken by the president on participation in purely European affairs. This issue is whether, with reservations protecting our position, we should join the moral forces of the world to reduce the dangers again growing around us, or whether we will by pretense of an insularity that we do not possess, sit by in the face of growing armies, navies, national antagonisms, reaction, or in reverse, the spread of bolshevism through much of the world. This would be the defeat of the hopes for which our sons were sacrificed in this war."

Reduction of Taxation
"Entirely aside from this moral idealism of the league and the danger to our own ultimate peace, the solution of our domestic problems, such as the size of our armament, reduction in taxation and the prevention of agricultural and industrial depression and consequent unemployment, is dependent upon stability abroad and upon our access to the world's markets, which today are endangered by discrimination against us through our inability to exercise our veto under the treaty."

Republican Service
"I believe it is the transcendent service which the republican party can render to the nation to settle a league efficiently designed to give us our great economic problems, and these national protections. "No one should be able to dictate the policies of great parties yet every man and woman has a right to decide what issues and measures he will support. If the republican party with the independent element of which I am naturally affiliated, adopts a forward looking, liberal constructive platform on the treaty and on our economic issues, and if the party proposes measures for sound business administration of the country, and is neither reactionary nor radical in its approach to our great domestic questions, and is backed by men who undoubtedly assure the consummation of these policies and measures, I will give it, my entire support."

Not a Candidate—But
"While I do not and will not myself seek the nomination, if it is felt that the issues necessitate it and if it is demanded of me I can not refuse service."

MOST men are willing and able to pay the price of good quality, even if they do "kick" a little because the price is high. But when you do pay the price of quality, you want to be sure you get it.

We appreciate how you feel; we make it our business to see that every dollar a man pays us shall go back to him in value in the goods.

WILL PRESIDENT CHANGE HIS MIND?

Look as Though He Might Send Treaty Back to Senate With Suggestions.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette.
Washington, D. C., March 31.—The treaty of Versailles, which lies in state at the White House, will shortly be sent back to the senate or else foreign governments will be notified that the United States is withdrawing from the obligations signed by her peace commissioners at Paris as well as the terms of the armistice, and must ask for a reassembling of the peace conference and the negotiation of a new treaty.

These alternatives are being considered. But the chances are that the first one will be followed, for no matter how bitter the party state it is inconceivable that the president would confess to the rest of the world the humiliating fact that the United States doesn't intend to live up to the pledges she made during the war, namely to cooperate with the rest of the allied powers in the enforcement of the terms of peace.

Treaty Coming Back.
The situation here following the temporary defeat of the treaty ten days ago is just beginning to crystallize. For a time it seemed as if the executive branch of the government would do nothing but watch the clock and wait for a presidential resolution. But it begins to look now as if at the psychological moment—possibly when the joint resolution is up for passage or has been vetoed by the president—the treaty will be sent back to the senate. In order to get at the viewpoint of the administration, the writer asked a member of the cabinet to give his interpretation of the present status of the treaty. He said:

"It is not up to the proponents of the treaty to say what shall be done. Say what you please about the treaty, but it is inconceivable that the executive branch of the government would do nothing but watch the clock and wait for a presidential resolution. But it begins to look now as if at the psychological moment—possibly when the joint resolution is up for passage or has been vetoed by the president—the treaty will be sent back to the senate. In order to get at the viewpoint of the administration, the writer asked a member of the cabinet to give his interpretation of the present status of the treaty. He said:

"How can that be done? Shall we ask other governments to reassemble their plenipotentiaries and negotiate a new treaty? But the treaty of Versailles is everywhere the accepted fact. Even Germany is bound by it. It is international law. In congress have not yet begun to realize the full effect of their folly. They think they have killed the treaty, but they have only severely wounded it. It lies like the body of Caesar, pierced by many wounds, but what are the conspirators saying, what is the crafty Cassius saying, what is the mob murmuring? Have the members of congress begun to think what the great audience is saying, or what may when the full effect of America's action on the treaty, is felt throughout this country and the world?"

The administration has proposed that the war be ended by a treaty of peace. That is the way the constitution says that wars shall be ended. If this treaty cannot pass, it is up to the men who have killed it to offer a substitute. A joint resolution is no substitute. What then is proposed? A new treaty? But it must be the executive branch of the government who must negotiate it and with whom? Will the other governments consent to the making of a new treaty? The document was a compromise of many interests. It was the labor of many months. Many interests had to be taken into consideration. Shall the whole thing be re-opened to please the senate of the United States or shall America simply take herself finite out of any contracts or obligations with the rest of the world and repudiate her own pledges and promises made publicly to the rest of the world during the war, and in the very terms of the armistice under which hostilities ceased? I am not saying this will be done. Congress is temporizing with expedients. Perhaps it would be wiser to let congress demonstrate first the utility of its own course."

Have Not Noticed Other Nations.
The foregoing was said in no spirit of bitterness, but with earnestness which indicated that the administration would not sit by and allow the country to get the impression that the mere passing of a joint resolution is a sufficient expedient by which to extricate the United States from the tangles of war. Especially as they relate to property and many advantages to foreign trade which are expected to accrue under a treaty.

It is a fact, incidentally, that foreign governments throughout the world, and particularly those associated with the United States in the war against Germany have not been notified by our government that the treaty is dead. Prime Minister Lloyd George spoke the truth in the House of Commons yesterday when he said he was unaware that the United States had rejected the treaty. It is simply unacted upon. President Wilson at the right time will send it back to the senate probably with a message urging again its ratification for under the provisions of the constitution of the United States, a treaty can always be kept before the senate. That is where the president will eventually put it there to remain until the senate has acted favorably or the nation has rendered its verdict at the polls.

Great Interest Shown Pupils in New H. S. Clubs

Every one of the 700 pupils of the high school attended and became a member of one of the 10 clubs which were organized Friday afternoon.

Some weeks ago, each signed for which ever club he wished to join. About five years ago clubs which have been running for a little over a year were dropped and this is the first time they have been started since, so that to all those now in high school it is a new experience.

The object of the clubs is to get pupils more interested in different departments. It affords an opportunity for them to get together. Under the new system started there this semester, they see less of each other.

Miss Grace Vergeron of the faculty, is supervisor of all the clubs.

The officers elected were: Gordon McLay, president; Paul Ambrose, vice-president; and Esther Field, secretary. Miss Field was also elected chairman of the program committee. Because of the number of members, this club was divided into four groups. Miss Helen Taylor, the head of all four, also has charge of one of the smaller groups. Miss Grace Padley, Miss Marion Scanlon and Miss Pauline Callen have charge of the others.

A little Puritan play, "May Day," was put on by some of the members of Miss Callen's group. The Drama club intends to study the history of drama and have dialogues and short plays at its meetings and before the assembly.

The History club, directed by Miss Mabel Keesey, elected George Raubacher, president; Jean McNamara, vice president; and Lovel Blackie, secretary. Margaret Ford heads the program committee. This club will have readings and discussions of historical events.

The Commercial club, under the supervision of Miss Clara Kienholz, will have talks by business men at its later meetings and will discuss the value of knowing how to typewrite and be a stenographer.
